

AN INTRODUCTION TO REFLECTIVE
SUPERVISION • CONSULTATION

Reflective Supervision is more than a technique - it's a way of being in relationship. This six month series introduces the foundations of reflective supervision – what it is, why it matters, and how it supports the whole professional. Designed as an entry point, this training helps participants build a strong reflective stance before moving into more advanced learning.

Who This Series is For

- Supervisors new to providing reflective supervision to others
- Providers preparing for Reflective Supervision Cohorts

Why Foundations Matter

Reflective supervision strengthens people, relationships, and systems – from the inside out. Growing evidence shows when supervisors are supported to reflect – not just problem-solve – teams are more resilient, relationships are stronger, and systems are healthier.

This Foundations series creates a shared language and practical tools participants can immediately apply within their roles and organizations.
